Section I.c Enrollment

Provide the number of students in the teacher preparation program in the following categories. Note that you must report on the number of students by ethnicity and race separately. Individuals who are non-Hispanic/Latino will be reported in one of the race categories. Also note that individuals can belong to one or more racial groups, so the sum of the members of each racial category may not necessarily add up to the total number of students enrolled.

For the purpose of Title II reporting, an enrolled student is defined as a student who has been admitted to a teacher preparation program, but who has not completed the program during the academic year being reported. An individual who completed the program during the academic year being reported is counted as a program completer and not an enrolled student.

Additional guidance on reporting race and ethnicity data.

Please provide any additional information about or descriptions of the supervised clinical experiences:

Clinical experiences were supervised by the director of the Elementary Education Program (with load time given at a ratio of three students equivalent to two hours of credit) and two adjunct professors (replacing the full-time faculty member on sabbatical leave). A full-time load at Bethel is considered twelve hours a semester. In addition, each content department (PreK-12 and Secondary Education Candidates) provided additional support for candidates during student teaching.

For the purposes of this report, 30 cooperating teachers (nine teacher candidates had dual student teaching placements) have also been included in the number of adjunct faculty (in addition to the two aforementioned adjunct faculty) in supervised clinical experience based on the Title II Tips for Reporting Guide.

Is your program preparing teachers in special education in 2016-17?

Yes

How many prospective teachers did your program plan to add in special education in 2016-17?

Provide any additional comments, exceptions and explanations below:

The numbers of students preparing to teach special education is declining statewide and we are experiencing that decline as well. Furthermore, with a general teaching shortage, students (particularly elementary education) do not need to add special education endorsement in order to find a job. Because special education is not an initial license and the coursework required for the endorsement adds the equivalent of another major, some of our students have stopped out of the special education program midway. We need to review our advising and course schedules to determine if there are ways to make the special education endorsement program more manageable for students, and continue to encourage special education as an option.

Section II Assurances

Please certify that your institution is in compliance with the following assurances. (§205(a)(1)(A)(iii), §206(b)) Note: Be prepared to provide documentation and evidence for your responses, when requested, to support the following assurances.

Preparation responds to the identified needs of the local educational agencies or States where the program completers are likely to teach, based on past hiring and recruitment trends.

Yes

Preparation is closely linked with the needs of schools and the instructional decisions new teachers face in the classroom.

Yes

Prospective special education teachers are prepared in core academic subjects and to instruct in core academic subjects.

Yes

Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students with disabilities.

Yes

Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to limited English proficient students.

Yes

Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students from low-income families.

Yes

Prospective teachers are prepared to effectively teach in urban and rural schools, as applicable.

Yes

Describe your institution's most successful strategies in meeting the assurances listed above:

Bethel College has created partnerships with local school districts as well as with schools in the Wichita School District (Wichita is the largest city in Kansas). Through these partnerships, Bethel candidates have the opportunity to work directly with students from diverse backgrounds (e.g., racial/ethnic, language, Socioeconomic Status, gender, rural/urban, and ability/special needs). Course work is directly tied to field experiences. Bethel has been most successful when incorporating field experiences in classes to support the course content.

Specifically, candidates in Adaptive Special Education must achieve an initial license in a core academic subject and Special Education is an added endorsement to the existing license.

General education teachers receive training in providing instruction to children with disabilities throughout the curriculum, but most significantly through the course, EDU 210 Introduction to Infants, Children and Youth with Special Needs. As part of course requirements, candidates are required to participate in field experiences in special needs classrooms and in regular education classrooms with special needs students included.

General education teachers receive training in providing instruction to limited English proficient students, in providing instruction to children from low-income families, and on how to effectively teach in urban and rural schools throughout general and content specific methods courses, as well as through the course, EDU 310 School and Community.

Candidates learn how to integrate technology into curricula and introduction through coursework and related activities. EDU300 Media and Computer for Educators introduces teachers to a variety of technology tools and issues related to the integration of these tools. Content Methods courses further explain how to integrate technology into specific content areas. Candidates demonstrate their ability to effectively integrate technology in instruction during the student teaching experience. Candidates learn to use technology effectively to collect, manage, and analyze data to improve teaching and learning in EDU325 Methods of Teaching and within content specific methods courses. The ability of candidates to use technology to effectively collect, manage, and analyze data to improve teaching and learning is assessed during their student teaching semester in the course EDU460A/EDU475A Practicum/Seminar in Student Teaching. Assessment is completed through the use of the Kansas Performance Teaching Portfolio (KPTP) and the Student Teaching Evaluation Scale completed by college supervisors and cooperating teachers.

Bethel College prepares all teachers to teach students with disabilities in inclusive classrooms. In EDU 210 Introduction to Infants, Children, and Adults with Special Needs, students learn about RTI (Response to Intervention) and the Kansas MTSS (Multi-tiered Support System) three-tiered framework set up to help all children learn prior to referral to special education. By understanding the process of MTSS, Bethel's teacher candidates learn the importance of being able to differentiate instruction so all students can learn. If students are not learning after tier 3 of documented differentiation and interventions, the student may be referred to a student assistance team and then evaluated as to if they qualify for special education. Additional suggestions for effective teaching of special needs students are discussed in both general methods and specific content methods courses.

Bethel's teacher candidates learn that general education teachers play a vital role in the IEP process by helping develop goals, monitoring, and assessing students with special needs and collecting data. Bethel College Teacher candidates understand they must give modifications and accommodations to students with disabilities as required by law.

General education teachers learn about models for teaching limited English proficient (LEP) students in EDU 310 School and Community and general methods courses. Specific strategies for assisting LEP students in general classrooms are also discussed and applied in lesson plan modifications. EDU 310 field placements in ELL classrooms (and in a dual language magnet K-8 school) allow general education teachers to observe firsthand how students acquire another language. Additional suggestions for effective teaching of LEP students are discussed in specific content methods courses.

Teach students with disabilities effectively:

Bethel College prepares special education teachers to teach students with disabilities effectively through the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas (ACCK). ACCK is a consortium of the six area member colleges of Bethany College at Lindsborg, Bethel College at North Newton, Kansas Wesleyan University at Salina, McPherson College at McPherson, Sterling College at Sterling, and Tabor College at Hillsboro. Undergraduate and post-baccalaureate students are enrolled in one of the member colleges to pursue endorsement in high-incidence special education at the K-6, 6-12, and PK-12 levels, and ACCK provides the undergraduate endorsement coursework that includes field experience for three of the four courses. ACCK has developed an assessment system that is aligned with its conceptual framework, Kansas High-Incidence Special Education Standards, and national standards for teacher accreditation. ACCK has a fully accredited program. The assessment system includes content-based assessment (Praxis II), assessment of the candidate's ability to plan instruction, assessment of clinical experience, assessment of candidate's effect on student learning, philosophical/historical/legal foundations, assessment, and managing behavior/problem-solving/social skills. ACCK students consistently meet or exceed standards. Students unable to meet standards are not formally accepted into the ACCK Adaptive Special Education Program, which is required before clinical experience (student teaching). Cooperating teachers rank ACCK students as proficient or distinguished on final assessment conference reports.

Participate as a member of individualized education program teams:

ACCK prepares special education teachers to participate as a member of individualized education program (IEP) teams. Coursework assignments include observation of an IEP and IEP team meeting, IEP videos/simulations, lecture captures on IEPs, planning of an IEP based on a case study, and preparation of an IEP during student teaching (clinical experience).

Teach students who are limited English proficient effectively:

ACCK prepares special education teacher to work effectively with diversity, including limited English proficiency. Coursework includes diversity interviews, diversity issues in assessment, diversity reference materials, lecture captures on diversity, reading programs for limited English proficient learners, and an oral exam with diversity questions.
